Break Losing Streak With Rally Which Nets Six Runs. New Line-Up Presented.

BY J. ED GRILLO.

That all teams do not have the same effect on the Nationals that did the Chicago White Sox was demonstrated yesterday when Cleveland made its initial appearance of the season here and was defeated 8 to o. Griffith's men presented an entirely different article of ball compared with that which they displayed during the recent series with the leaders. They looked more like a major league ball team than they did earlier in the week, and, to use a turf expression, actually galloped home with a victory.

So far as the Naps' efforts were concerned, it was merely a demonstration of that accepted philosophy of base ball, that you can't hit what you can't see, and it was Walter Johnson who caused this failure of the sight so far as the ball was concerned.

The star of the local pitching staff has given few better exhibitions during his career than the one of yesterday. It was a masterly effort from start to finish, and naturally there was never a moment when he was in danger of being scored upon.

Johnson allowed but two hits, did not issue a single pass, struck out eleven and did not allow a base runner to reach second base. The two hits came in different innings and really amounted to no more than a break in the monotony of seeing batters strike out or offer easy chances to the fielders. As if miffed at his recent experience against Chicago, Johnson seemed to be determined not to allow such accidents to happen again, and he started out by mowing down the first three batters to face him. He kept up his effective work to the last, and it is there was never a chance for one of the visitors to get any nearer

During the first two innings it seemed as if the same hoodoo which perched here during the Chicago series was still camping out at the local park, for again four men were left during the first two rounds without a run being scored. But Milan's grounder to Ball resulted in Shanks being thrown out at the plate. Walker, who was playing for the same reason that Shanks was in left, struck out, and then Cunningham, another new face in the game, forced Foster at third.
In the second Ainsmith walked and Johnson got a scratch hit with two out, but they, too, were left, and the spec-tators began to move restlessly in their Harvard Beats Princeton by Margin

The intercollegiate and intercholastic track and field meet held yesterday by the Maryland Agricultural College was a bigger success than was the one given under its auspices last spring. That is all need be said of the games as a whole.

There were many noteworthy features evident during the meet, both on the part of individuals and institutions. Western Maryland, with three men, tallied seventeen points in the collegiate events; Kemp of the Maryland Agricultural College scored sixteen points himself in the intercollegiate part of the games, and Hamilton of Central High made eighteen in the four interscholastic events in which he took part.
